- Joint Solutions Request for Proposals (JSRFP) This is a formal procurement methodology (also known as Joint Solutions Procurement or JSP) used in systems integration and other complex projects. The method is designed for selection of a vendor based on demonstrated capability and expertise to solve a problem or to present new creative ideas.
- A joint venture may be able to adapt to the new circumstances, but sooner or later most partnering arrangements come to an end. If your joint venture was set up to handle a particular project, it will naturally come to an end when the project is finished. Ending a joint venture is always easiest if you have addressed the key issues in advance.

Overall, while strategic alliance agreements and joint ventures can have positive benefits, they also subject firms to counter-party risk that must be considered carefully. This brief provides a general overview of the landscape and considerations around joint ventures and strategic alliances.
